R E S O L V E

RELATIVE TO AN AMENDMENT OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

Whereas, the legislature has received official notification of the passage by both houses of the thirty-ninth congress of the United States, at its first session, of the following proposition to amend the constitution of the United States, by a constitutional majority of two-thirds thereof, in words following, to wit :

JOINT RESOLUTION, PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, (two-thirds of both Houses concurring.) That the following article be proposed to the Legislatures of the several States, as an Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which, when ratified by three-fourths of said Legislatures, shall be valid as a part of the Constitution, namely :

ARTICLE XIV.

SECTION 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

SECTION 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States, according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of Electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, Representatives in Congress, the Executive and Judicial officers of a State, or the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion, or other crimes, the basis of representation shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of such citizens, twenty-one years of age, in such State.

SECTION 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or Elector of President or Vice-President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any State, who having previously taken an oath as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an Executive or Judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may by a vote of two-thirds of each House remove such disability.

SECTION 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for the payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States, nor any State, shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims, shall be held illegal and void.

SECTION 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article.

Therefore, resolved, That the said proposed amendment to the constitution be, and the same is hereby ratified by the legislature of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Resolved, That certified copies of the foregoing preamble and resolution be forwarded by the governor to the president of the United States, to the presiding officer of the United States senate, and the speaker of the United States house of representatives. [Passed in the House of Representatives on March 15, and in the Senate, March 20, 1867.]

INAUGURAL ADDRESS

OF

At twelve o'clock on Friday, the fourth day of January, His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, the members of the Executive Council, and officers of the civil and military departments of the government, attended by a joint committee of the two Houses, met the Senate and House of Representatives, in Convention, and delivered the following

A D D R E S S .

Gentlemen of the Senate and of the House of Representatives:

In the name of the people we have convened in this hall of our fathers to take the oaths of office and duty. The place of our assembling has been consecrated for two generations by the sacrifices and the blessings of free government. It is fit and proper, as it is also in accordance with the custom of our ancestors, that we should give one hour to review, before we proceed in our spheres of labor. Surely, and first of all, we owe devout gratitude to the Father of mercies, that He has, through another year, granted to our beloved Commonwealth a term of health and prosperity; that He has inspired her citizens with the same principles of integrity and courage which have kept her institutions unsullied in the past; and that He has brought us together, her chosen representatives, under no regret for any delinquency of those who have come and gone before us, but only responsible, and anxious, lest our exertions shall be less worthy than theirs of the approval of Him who is the stay and trust of Massachusetts.

In the discharge of my part in this duty of our Convention, I propose, in accordance with ancient usage, to discuss, with whatever information I possess, the condition of the local interests of the Commonwealth, and also to speak frankly and fully of her relations as a member of the federal Union.

LIABILITIES OF THE COMMONWEALTH.

The funded debt of the State on the first day of the present year was . . . . .	$24,399,224 25
And the unfunded debt was . . . . .	2,947,963 16
Amounting in the aggregate to . . . . .	$27,347,187 41
This statement presents an apparent increase of the former during the year, of . . . . .	5,267,789 25
And a decrease of the latter, of . . . . .	1,043,473 84

This increase in the funded debt, which includes the loans to various railroad corporations, has accrued chiefly from the absorption of the temporary loans outstanding on the first day of January, 1866; from the investment of more than $1,500,000 of cash belonging to the various funds in the purchase of the Bounty Fund and Massachusetts War Fund scrip; and from the addition of the difference between $4.44 and $4.84 per pound on the sterling bonds loaned to the Western Railroad and the Troy and Greenfield Railroad corporations: these bonds having been originally computed at $4.44, while their redemption must be provided for at $4.84 per pound sterling.

The unfunded debt, at present existing, has arisen mainly from advances in excess of the issue of scrip to meet expenses incurred on account of the Troy and Greenfield Railroad and Hoosac Tunnel; from the re-imbursements to cities and towns of amounts paid to families of volunteers; and from unexpected expenditures authorized by Acts of special legislation in excess of previous estimates.

Of the funded debt, before stated, the sum of $6,826,196 is absorbed in loans made to railroad corporations, which are secured by bonds, mortgages, sinking funds, and collaterals. This, however, includes the amount issued on account of the Troy and Greenfield Railroad and Hoosac Tunnel, the redemption of which has since been assumed by the Commonwealth. But this fact strengthens the security, since the title has become absolute in the State. Of the remainder of the funded debt, the payment of $22,005,568 is amply and with certainty provided for by sinking funds, established, pledged, and supplied each year for that purpose; and the sum of $2,393,656.25, including the Coast Defence Loan, ($888,000,) and the Three Years Loan, ($1,055,656.25,) has accrued without any special provision for its redemption other than the ordinary resources of the Treasury.

In connection with this subject, it may be stated that the accumulations of the Debt Extinguishment Fund from the increased value of its securities, of the Union Loan Sinking Fund, and perhaps of some other funds, promise largely to exceed the amount necessary for the redemption of scrip for which they are pledged; thus furnishing means for the liquidation of loans for which no provision has yet been made, whenever, in the judgment of the Legislature, it shall seem desirable to make such reservation. It may be added, also, that the Treasury has now upwards of two millions of dollars in hand with which to retire the seven per cent. Temporary Loan soon to commence its maturity, and to liquidate other portions of the unfunded loans and floating liabilities.

MASSACHUSETTS WAR EXPENSES.

Of the aggregate expenditure of Massachusetts on account of the war, amounting to more than $50,000,000 including that of her municipalities, the sum thus far paid and payable directly from the State Treasury is not less than $30,000,000. Of this last named amount, the sum of $3,532,092.78 has been charged to the United States Government, under the provisions of the Acts of Congress authorizing partial indemnification for expenses incurred by the loyal States. During the past year, an additional allowance of $621,435.53 has been received from the United States, making, with the amounts previously received, a total re-imbusement thus far of $2,555,749.74 on this account. Of the unadjusted balance of $976,343.04, about $30,000, included in our final account, remains to be submitted to the proper department at Washington. Of the remainder, the sum of $919,573.18 is suspended for explanation and information now nearly ready to be forwarded with our final account; leaving less than $27,000 of the whole account thus far actually disallowed. It is but just and reasonable to claim and to expect from the General Government a full re-imbusement for expenses thus incurred.

GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS.

FINANCE FOR THE PRESENT YEAR.

The estimate of ordinary revenue for the year, which I make from the best materials at my command, amounts to the sum of about . . . . . $1,200,000 00

The estimate of the expenditures can scarcely fall short of . . . . . 5,000,000 00

In this I allow for aid to disabled soldiers and the families of the slain, under the Act of 1866, the sum of . . . . . 1,800,000 00

The returns from the towns have not yet been received and added, but it is scarcely probable that the total can be less than I have estimated. This sum, when ascertained, should be provided for by tax, and I see no reason to doubt that it will constitute nearly or quite one-half of the whole amount necessary to be raised by taxation.

In these estimates I have made no account of additional appropriations for the prosecution of the work at the Tunnel. The Legislature for the last few years has permitted the appropriation for this object to be provided for by temporary loans, which afterwards are transferred to the funded debt.

By an order adopted by the Governor and Council, after mature deliberation, and under the provisions of chapter 122 of the Acts of 1865, establishing the War Fund, the Treasurer has already issued five-twenty six per cent. currency bonds amounting to $2,113,000, of which the larger part has been applied in retiring the temporary indebtedness. In the opinion of the Treasurer, approved by the Executive Department, this was deemed to be the best policy of finance which can now be adopted. Already, in the period of four years and a half, the purchase of gold coin for the payment of interest has drawn from the Treasury the sum of $1,292,516.77.

EDUCATION.

The returns made to the office of the Board of Education exhibit a year of unexampled interest and progress. The increase in the number of pupils of all ages in the schools is shown to be nearly ten thousand, while the average attendance has increased more than eleven thousand and five hundred. No feature of the returns is more satisfactory and encouraging than the marked advance in the wages paid to teachers. The amount raised by taxes for schools during the year is $1,993,177.39, showing an excess of $210,552.77 over the preceding year. When to this we add the sum received from funds and other sources, both for public and private schools, we have the result of $2,574,974.49 expended on schools; which is equal to the sum of $10.09 for every person in the State between five and fifteen years of age. I know not any more inspiring cause for hope, nor any higher proof of the determination of the people to add to the security of government the power and grace of intelligence, than is furnished by this unprecedented aggregate of contributions, made in a year of also unprecedented severity of other taxation to discharge the burdens imposed by public war.

All the towns have raised the amount required by law as a condition of receiving their share from the State fund, and sixteen only have failed to raise double this sum; a fact which has not occurred in any former year. The experience which in this respect makes up the record of the last year and of preceding years, establishes, almost beyond doubt, the practical wisdom and the working efficiency of a State education fund, large but limited, and taking effect rather as an incentive to popular appropriations than as a leading source of supply.

I advert to another item from the voluminous returns, which takes a place comparatively obscure among the decimals of arithmetic, but if carried forward, will take a prominent place in the intelligent growth of the State. The percentage of the valuation of 1865 appropriated for public schools in the last year was one mill and ninety-eight hundredths, ($.001.98,)—an increase on the preceding of twenty-one hundredths of a mill, ($.00.21.) A delicate ratio when expressed to the eye or the ear; but if it shall be maintained hereafter, at the close of a decade the sum appropriated to public schools will exceed the amount of $6,000,000 per annum.

It appears that a large and constantly increasing percentage of female teachers, both in summer and in winter, is kept in charge of the department of education. In the last educational year thirteen hundred and seventy-seven (1,377) male teachers, and ten thousand eight hundred and eighty-five (10,885) female teachers were placed over the public schools. I deem it proper to state, also, that the Normal School at Framingham has been put under the superintendence of a woman, by the unanimous approval of the members of the Board of Education, with whose judgment it was my pleasure to concur. It also appears that the average wages of female teachers is considerably less than one-half of that of male teachers. It would be justly a cause of regret, if it should prove that the reason of the predominant number of female teachers is only or chiefly the cheaper price of their services ; nor is it believed that this is generally true. The facilities and felicities which woman brings to the scope, and range, and adaptations of instruction, are well established by philosophy and experience in the field of education, and ought to absolve the preference which is given to her in the schools of Massachusetts from the hypothesis of mere mercenary advantage to be derived from her employment. Her mission in the progression and elevation of the coming generations of youth is part of a higher philosophy, and a juster judgment, in the realm of modern civilization. I must therefore again ask permission to urge upon the people of the Commonwealth the policy, the wisdom, and the duty of a continued advance in the compensation of the labor of those to whose influence the character of the State is so largely committed. It is not the ordinary question of economic supply and demand. It is rather a condition of the public benefit and destiny, which must be met by a spirit of large liberality and of comprehensive benevolence to the generations which are to succeed us.

PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

The charities of Massachusetts are among her most cherished institutions. By her efforts and sacrifices for their establishment, maintenance, and advancement, she has won an enviable name. On this subject her citizens are peculiarly sensitive. Colonial records, provincial laws, and State enactments give ample proof that the straitened means of an infant people and the gathered wealth of a prosperous State have contributed in full proportion to the relief of the needy, and the cure or care of those stricken of God and afflicted.

As a riper experience and a better knowledge have gradually developed the true relations and the actual needs of her dependent classes, she has never faltered in word or work. True alike to instinct and tradition, the Legislature, sustained by her tax-paying people, has preferred rather to exceed, by a liberal provision, than fail to meet the requirements of humanity, as interpreted by the spirit of the age, and the results of scientific investigation. Statutes centuries old, the substance of which is incorporated into our present laws, provided for her poor. A generation ago, the blind, the deaf mute, and the lunatic received her care, and were not forgotten in the generous benefactions of her sons and daughters. And while provision was made for all, caution and sound judgment marked the steady and harmonious progress of her charities, till their course was suddenly and rudely interrupted.

Origin of the State System.

It pleased God to afflict another people with pestilence and famine, thereby opening a way, through the consequent immigration, for the development of our latent resources, and their own material and social advancement.

But with the advantages gained, the seaboard States were compelled, while all unprepared for it, to encounter the inevitable results from the influx of a sickly and poverty-stricken population. In Massachusetts, the effect was speedily manifest in the crowding of the local almshouses, the hospitals and jails, with paupers, invalids and lunatics.

The unequal distribution of this burden, which bore most heavily on the cities and towns adjoining the sea-coast and the railway lines, created an urgent appeal for relief to the Legislature. This body, finding itself helplessly encumbered by their pecuniary claims, not one-half of which could be examined in an ordinary session, superseded its long-standing committee on accounts by creating the bureau of the State Auditor. It also intrusted to its most sagacious and far-seeing members the investigation of the whole subject, in the hope of immediate relief and future protection. Hence the establishment of the present State system, which went into operation in 1854; but not until the penalty of more than a million of dollars had been incurred for the absence of protective statutes, and the inefficient execution of existing enactments. For the sick immigrants, the hospital at Rainsford Island was refitted and reopened. For the paupers, State almshouses were built, and for the lunatics another hospital was erected, to which, in four years, was added a third. These buildings and their equipment alone have up to this date cost the State over $900,000. There was further entailed upon our people, for the support of these institutions, an annual expenditure of a quarter of a million, and I am informed that a large part of the present outlay for our charities is due to the dependent survivors of this early immigration.

Board of Alien Commissioners.

As an indispensable part of the system, the Legislature created the Board of Alien Commissioners, whose province it was to guard the State by land and sea against the influx of those likely to become a public charge, without ample guarantees for their support or removal. Several years elapsed before this Board was suitably organized ; but as early as 1857 its activity became manifest. In the next six years it sent from the State 12,000 paupers and lunatics, legally and equitably chargeable to other communities. By this system of prompt removal, it stayed the increase of public charitable institutions, to which no addition has been necessary since that date. It turned back the tide of vagrants penetrating every hamlet of the State. It gave such ample protection by sea, that the commutation money collected was sufficient to support all immigrants thus entering the State who became a public charge within five years after their arrival, to pay the expenses of collection and leave a liberal surplus. It had succeeded, too, in reducing the expenses of State pauperism to $200,000 per annum, when the outbreak of civil strife deranged its plans, by introducing new classes of dependants.

Board of State Charities.

But in the State system, there existed abuses which the Alien Commissioners had not the power to abate. In the judgment of the Legislature the time had come for the creation of a central board with larger powers, and a more extended supervision, yet retaining all that was valuable in the old organization. Accordingly it established the Board of State Charities, in the faith that the study of learned and thoughtful men, combined with the experience of practical philanthropists, might simplify our cumbrous system, relieve the friction of local boards, and point the way to a reduction of pauperism and crime by exposing, and suggesting means to remove, their causes.

By a happy coincidence there are associated upon this Board the good physician, who has given eyes to the blind, and whose living sympathy with humanity is recognized in either hemisphere ; and the legislator of judicial experience, to whose practical sense and legal acumen the State is mainly indebted for the statutes that have mitigated the intolerable burdens of the former years. With such guarantees for sincerity and impartiality of investigation, the opinions of the Board are entitled to your confidence and their suggestions to the test of actual experiment. So much at least is due to their liberal expenditure of time and labor, and the uncompensated services of all the members, save its executive officers.

Cost of the Board of Charities.

The entire cost of the Board proper for 1866, including the compensation and expenses of their agent for visiting indentured and adopted children, is $1,900, from an appropriation of $2,500; of the office of the secretary, $8,000; of that of the General Agent, $12,000. The latter officer has collected from immigrant head-money and other sources, and paid into the treasury, more than $30,000,—thus covering the entire expenses of the department and leaving a surplus of nearly $9,000. Referring you to the Annual Report of the Board for the details of its complicated business, I mention one item, of too much importance to our tax-payers to be omitted here.

While the State has supported during the past year an average of 2,375 paupers and lunatics, at a cost of $300,000, the Board of Charities has removed from our limits, or fully provided for two thousand more, who would otherwise have been supported at the public expense. The same agency has removed 17,000 of this class since 1857. The enormous outlay not only for annual support, but for buildings and equipment thus legally and honorably avoided, sufficiently indicates our duty, as well as our policy, for the future.

Merely adding that the recommendations of the Board, adopted by your predecessors, have already produced most gratifying results, I proceed to speak of the several classes of institutions.

The Lunatic Hospitals.

These institutions are supervised by unpaid Boards of Trustees, whose personal character assures the faithful performance of their duties.

I have visited them in company with the Executive Council, and can commend their general appearance and management. Their relation to the Commonwealth consists in the reception and treatment of State pauper lunatics at a rate of board fixed by the Legislature and approximating to the actual cost of the support. It is now three dollars and twenty-five cents per week.

The number thus supported on the 30th of September, 1865, was 478; on the same date, the present year, 548. This increase is due to the inadequate means of the Board of Charities for their examination and removal. As this increase involves an additional expense of over $13,000 per annum, for as many years as they may continue to be inmates, it is simply justice to our tax-payers to appropriate the small sum necessary to dispose of them as justice and humanity require.

I have caused a careful computation to be made of the aggregates of the annual increase for the past nine years, and find it to be 1,053, all but 70 of whom, excepting those who have died, have been removed through the officers of the charities. This is an average of 117 a year, enough, after allowing for the mortality, to require the establishment of an additional hospital once in four years, unless the laws of the State are rigidly executed. To the fact that the laws have been thus executed is due our exemption from an otherwise intolerable burden. Nearly all these parties are entire strangers. There is no reason why Massachusetts should assume their support, and I am confident that the interests of humanity will be best subserved by adherence to the principle at present adopted, that every community shall maintain the classes of dependants for which it is legally liable.

The cost of these institutions to the State, for the current year, has been $103,000.

The State Almshouses.

The past year has witnessed an important change in two of these establishments. In compliance with the recommendation of the Board of Charities, the last Legislature adopted a new system of classification. Heretofore, the young and the old, the reputable and the vicious, the sane and the insane, have mingled indiscriminately in the same institutions. This admixture has been as revolting to the feelings as prejudicial to good morals. It was, therefore, provided that a State Workhouse should be established on the premises of the Commonwealth at Bridgewater, to which should be committed on long sentences such inmates of the State Almshouses as should be convicted before a trial justice of vagrancy or of leading idle and dissolute lives; and further, that the State Almshouse at Monson should be converted into a Primary School, to which should be transferred, for discipline and instruction, such children as appeared likely to be chargeable to the State for a period longer than six months. From these children were removed all the disabilities of pauperism, and provision was made for placing them as soon as possible in suitable families. A visiting agent was appointed by the Board of Charities to insure a constant knowledge of their treatment and a fulfillment of the conditions on which they were so placed.

This action is a virtual abandonment of two of the State Almshouses as such, except for the reception of the few temporary inmates supplied by the districts in which they are located. It seems to be a measure of economy and humanity, and I am informed that it promises to be a complete success. Since the first of October, ninety inmates have been sentenced to the State Workhouse, and the effect is already apparent in the diminution of admissions to the State Almshouses.

The Primary School at Monson contains 445 pupils, and will compare favorably with the majority of our district schools.

There are a few hundred paupers remaining at Bridgewater and Monson, who will be nearly all removed in the coming spring, when each institution will assume more completely its distinctive character.

The institution at Tewksbury, under the policy adopted by the Legislature, will eventually be the only State Almshouse. The elimination of the vicious and criminal elements will relieve it in great measure of the repulsive features that have hitherto so disfigured the Almshouses, and render it a more suitable home for the deserving poor. It is under the charge of a kind-hearted and conscientious Superintendent. Its medical department, now involving a great increase of labor and responsibility, through the opening on its premises of a receptacle for the harmless and apparently incurable insane, has been recently placed under the care of a physician of high character and acknowledged ability. Its successful management under the new arrangement will demand financial skill, executive force and promptness, and a banishment of undue timidity. Let us hope that both its Superintendent and its Board of Inspectors will cooperate sincerely and efficiently with the Board of Charities in that policy which seeks not only an economical administration, but a better knowledge of the principles that should control the treatment and support of the insane and the indigent. Its inmates, including about 150 pauper lunatics, now number 780, and the aggregate population of the three establishments is about 1,800, less by ten per cent. than at the same date in 1865. The sum actually drawn from the Treasury for their maintenance is for the current year $170,000, or somewhat less than $2 per week for each person supported.

Rainsford Hospital.

It remains to speak of the Hospital at Rainsford Island, which, as it has recently been discontinued in part, requires a somewhat extended notice. This island was purchased in 1736 for hospital purposes. A careful examination of the legislation from that date to 1775, shows that it was intended and used only for persons ill with contagious diseases, who might arrive by sea or reside "in or near Boston." The selectmen of that town were its supervising board. It afterwards passed entirely under the control of that city, though the title remained vested in the State. The increase of immigration between 1845 and 1852, and the consequent sickness, caused the State to resume its direct control and refit the island for hospital purposes, for which it was re-opened in 1854. But sanitary measures applied to the immigrant ships soon removed the sickness, and since that date its patients have been mainly the vicious poor of Boston and vicinity, who would be more appropriately committed to the excellent hospitals of the State Almshouses. To maintain so costly an institution for this class, many of whom under various pretexts would linger for months after their recovery, seemed only bestowing a premium on vice, and great efforts were made to reduce its numbers and expenditures. These were resolutely opposed by the local officials, and extraordinary means were used to secure patients—or rather inmates—till the passage of the excellent Act of 1865, providing that the sick poor not able to be moved to a State Almshouse should be cared for at their own homes, the expense to be borne mainly by the State. This of course rendered any further occupancy of the island entirely needless except as a quarantine station. The few remaining patients were therefore removed and the officers and attendants relieved from duty. The island is now under the charge of a keeper, and will be used strictly hereafter for its original purpose. Thus has been terminated a troublesome controversy, and a needless expenditure of some thirty thousand dollars per annum. I have yet to learn that by reason of this action any sick person has suffered, or any increase in numbers has occurred in a single State institution.

I deem it proper to say that the above action was taken deliberately and advisedly by the Executive Department in view of the heavy and needless expenditure of the Hospital. Its average number of inmates for the year ending September 30, 1866, was 125; its cost for the same time for expenses and repairs, $35,000; its cost, since it was re-opened in 1854, not less than $407,000.

I must add that an establishment called the Military Barracks was found on the island, supported without color of law from the pauper appropriation, and containing some forty discharged soldiers. Having ascertained that numbers of these were of dissolute character, and that all the deserving could be comfortably and legally cared for in the "Discharged Soldiers' Home," for which a liberal appropriation had been made, and of which the State was not availing itself, by the advice of the Executive Council I directed them to be removed.

For an account of the School for Idiotic and Feeble-Minded Youth, the Asylum for the Blind, and the various Institutions of Reform and Correction, especially of the State Prison, which I am happy to learn is again about to become nearly or quite self-supporting, I must refer you to their elaborate and interesting Annual Reports.

PROVISION FOR DEAF-MUTES.

For successive years the deaf-mutes of the Commonwealth, through annual appropriations, have been placed for instruction and training in the Asylum at Hartford. While, in the treatment of these unfortunates, science was at fault and methods were crude, in the absence of local provisions, this course, perhaps, was justifiable; but with the added light of study and experience, which have explored the hidden ways and developed the mysterious laws by which the recesses of nature are reached, I cannot longer concur in this policy of expatriation. For I confess that I share the sympathetic yearnings of the people of Massachusetts towards these children of the State, detained by indissoluble chains in the domain of silence. This rigid grasp we may never relax; but over unseen wires, through the seemingly impassable gulf that separates them from their fellows, we may impart no small amount of abstract knowledge and moral culture. They are wards of the State. Then, as ours is the responsibility, be ours also the grateful labor. And I know not to what supervision we may more safely intrust this delicate and intricate task, than to the matured experience which has overcome the greater difficulty of blindness superadded to privation of speech and hearing. To no other object of philanthropy will the warm heart of Massachusetts respond more promptly. Assured as I am, on substantial grounds, that legislative action in this direction will develop rich sources of private beneficence. I have the honor to recommend that the initial steps be taken to provide for this class of dependants within our own Commonwealth. Should this policy be adopted, I have every reason to believe that it would eventually result in a permanent decrease of the present annual expenditure for their support.

PRODUCTIVE ENERGIES OF MASSACHUSETTS.

In accordance with the Act of 1865, providing for a Statistical Return of the Industry of the Commonwealth, the Secretary of State has compiled and published, in a volume of more than eight hundred pages, an enduring memorial of the capacity, activity and enterprise of our people. This is the Fourth Decennial Report on the same subject which has been prepared in compliance with our laws.

In this connection it is interesting to recall the fact, that when, thirty years ago, in the commercial metropolis of the world, her capitalists consulted the great statesman of Massachusetts as to the intrinsic value of the scrip of the Commonwealth, then for the first time offered in a foreign market, his answer was the presentation of a copy of the First Report of her productive industry. The maturity of that scrip is immediately approaching; and no better evidence can be furnished of the far-reaching wisdom of his reply, than a perusal of this latest record of her material prosperity and power. Whatever increase of her indebtedness may have since been demanded by the enterprises of peace, or the exigencies of war, the increase of her wealth and productive capacity in a yet greater ratio demonstrates, by the most convincing proof, her ability to meet these added obligations. For, with gratified pride I am enabled to announce to every holder of a Massachusetts Bond, whether at home or abroad, the fact, that while the First Report indicated an annual product of eighty-six millions of dollars, the Second of one hundred and twenty-four millions, and the Third of two hundred and ninety-five millions,—the Fourth and last exhibits an aggregate of five hundred and seventeen millions ($517,000,000.) And this result is yet more gratifying, and no less remarkable, when it is remembered that the increase of seventy-two per cent. on production in the last decade, has been attained with an increase of only three per cent. in our population.

In reviewing this subject I cannot forget that the inventive genius of our people, developed by their necessities, has induced a variety of pursuits and a division of labor, which by relieving a too intense competition tends with greater certainty to the success of every man in his chosen department of toil. In this last published abstract of our industry I find enumerated more than two hundred distinct classifications of pursuits, of which many are themselves susceptible of sub-division, while many others are omitted from the statement from a failure of the interrogatories propounded by law to keep pace with the ingenuity of our people. We may well doubt whether within the limits of any other nation, a community can be found so completely illustrating the power and the results of intelligence as applied to industry, in the vital force, the material wealth and the nobler advancement of mind and soul, developed by this combination.

These results have been achieved by a people numbering about twelve hundred and seventy thousand. The returns of the census of 1865 are now in process of compilation in the office of the Secretary; but an examination of the tables foreshadows the above conclusion. The ratio of increase for the last period of five years has scarcely exceeded one-third of the ratio of the five years preceding. But when we consider how great have been the disturbing causes since 1860, our surprise is rather awakened by this steadiness of popular growth. During the same period of five years, from 1860, the valuation of property has increased from $897,000,000 to $1,009,000,000, notwithstanding all the while the constant and extraordinary waste of war. Thus it appears, from results which are neither conjectural nor illusory, but which are derived from our admirable method of statistics, and are wholly trustworthy, that the Commonwealth is constantly advancing in all the ways of public strength.

Nor are these energies and forces of wealth and power limited to the uses of mere local aggrandizement. Alike in time of strife or tranquillity, for maintaining the dignity of the Government, and cultivating the arts of peace, their proportion of the national burden has far transcended their ratio of population. The best blood of Massachusetts has been freely shed on land and sea, for the integrity of our empire, and the great idea of universal freedom; but no less profusely, and with no less heroic sacrifice, have her people poured out their treasures to further the accomplishment of the same high purposes. Whether as voluntary offerings, or the necessary imposts of war, their contributions have been made with the same spirit of firm resolve and cheerful alacrity.

By the courtesy of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the several Collectors, I have been enabled to ascertain that for the last fiscal year, the people of Massachusetts have paid in the form of internal revenue, specific and general, the sum of $34,989,208.33. Nor do these figures express the full amount of their payments; for, estimating our proportional expenditure for stamps and other items not necessary to be recounted here, this amount will be at least $37,000,000, of an aggregate revenue of $311,000,000. This is 12 per cent. of the entire receipts of that Department from the whole country,—a result in marked disproportion to the comparative area and population of this Commonwealth, and illustrating the energy and patriotism of its people. If the influence of States in the national councils shall be commensurate with their contributions to the national support, the day is distant when in a public crisis the voice of the people of Massachusetts, speaking through their chosen representatives, shall be lightly regarded.

SAVINGS BANKS.

The first report of the Commissioner of Savings Banks will exhibit a large annual increase in this class of investments. The whole amount of deposits is shown to be $67,717,947.80; an increase for the year of $7,781,465.28. It is now thirty-two years since this class of returns was made, and each year has shown an advance in the amount of deposits. That of the last year has far exceeded every other. It is now fifty years since the first Savings Bank was incorporated in the town of Boston, and the present amount of deposits in one hundred and two institutions furnishes a proof that the original purpose of the system has at least been successful. Not only have the number of institutions and the aggregate amounts of the deposits been swollen to the present condition shown by the report of the Commissioner, but the average amount of deposits to each depositor has very largely and constantly increased. I commend these facts, and the suggestions of the Commissioner relating to them, to the consideration of the Legislature.

It is certainly a fit source of pride that the thrift and forethought of the people is represented in the facts of this great success; and it is equally worthy of consideration, in the present development and magnitude of the system, whether, with reference to possible financial exigencies, a larger discretion and power may not wisely and safely be conferred upon the managers of these institutions. Under the present ratio of this investment but a few years will elapse before this capital will amount to one hundred millions of dollars. Those who are vested with its control ought to be also clothed with a discretion sufficient for the general safety in a contingency of public panic.

COLLECTION OF STATE TAXES.

Great embarrassment and delay have been experienced in collecting the assessments under the corporation tax laws of 1864 and 1865, by reason of the inadequate methods provided. Many of the corporations withhold payment, and the number of these increases, by the influence of example, from year to year. The number of cases now delinquent is large, and the amount in dispute is more than $100,000.

In cases of the refusal of corporations to pay the tax assessed upon them under the law, the statute authorizes suits to be brought against them in the name of the Commonwealth. This course has been adopted. But in these suits the questions of law which arise must await the decision of the Supreme Judicial Court; which decision, in consequence of the large business before that tribunal, can only be obtained after considerable lapse of time. In the meanwhile these corporations do not pay their tax, and others, because of the pendency of the questions of law, refuse to pay theirs. And, in addition, some of these cases may be carried upon writs of error to the Supreme Court of the United States, where in the ordinary course of the docket a decision may not be had before the second or third year after its entry. A large number of corporations may unite to carry any one representative cause into that court,—as, in the year just closed, a large number in a body refused for a common reason to pay the tax assessed upon their capital,—and it is easy to perceive that the operations of the government may in this way be seriously embarrassed.

Besides, this embarrassment reaches the individual towns. Under the fifteenth section of chapter 283 of the Acts of 1865, to which I ask your attention in connection with this subject, as often as the corporations refuse to pay the tax, the accounts of the State Treasurer with the towns in which the stock of the delinquents is held, are kept open and unsettled, and the proper credit and re-imbusement to the towns must be held back until the final adjudication.

In my opinion this is a state of things which is not in accordance with the dignity, necessity, or convenience of the State. The Commonwealth goes as a plaintiff seeking among the courts for its revenue, while any one of its municipalities may enforce the payment of its own taxes against the citizen by quick and summary process. I am of the opinion, reinforced by constant complaints of embarrassment from the Treasury, that a remedy should be provided against this condition.

I recommend that if a tax of the State remains unpaid, after notice, and after a sufficient time, the Treasurer be empowered to issue his warrant, directed to some appropriate officer, for the collection of such tax, in a manner analogous to that in which the towns are now authorized to proceed against delinquent tax-payers. This should be a remedy in addition to those now provided by law.

Of course any party aggrieved should have its remedy. If such tax should be decided illegal, perhaps the party of whom it has been collected in the manner proposed, might have an action at common law against the officer issuing the warrant, or against the persons assessing the tax. Such actions would be a public inconvenience and ought to be avoided. I recommend, therefore, that in lieu of any other form of action, and in exclusion of any other, such tax-payer be authorized to commence proceedings in the Supreme Judicial Court against the Commonwealth by a petition in the nature of a petition of right.

HARBOR COMMISSIONERS.

A law establishing a board of Harbor Commissioners was enacted April 12, 1866. Under this Act I made early appointments, and the commission has been actively engaged in its responsible work. I beg leave to commend to the two houses a thoughtful consideration of the report of this board, composed of gentlemen who are eminent citizens, and whose recommendations may be safely received as the result of the mature judgment of disinterested and impartial officers. I anticipate from their deliberations and conclusions new guarantees of security to the commerce and the wealth of the State. If this board had been established twenty-five years before, many private rights, which by legislative grant have since accrued against the public interests, might have been wisely prevented. From those many Acts, which cannot now be revoked without an infraction of the public faith, let us take admonition for the future, respect and reasonably sustain the judgment of the commissioners, and receive their suggestions as the expression of a watchful jealousy against every encroachment of private interest upon the public safety and property. I repeat my former assurance, that every measure of safeguard to the harbor of Boston should receive the approval of the representatives from all parts of the State, since it furnishes equally to their own local constituencies the promise of their growth and prosperity. The experience of the few months during which this board has been in existence, has shown the necessity of some improvements in the law.

A Resolve, passed in the year 1859, (chap. 103,) among other things, empowers the Governor and Council to authorize riparian proprietors to build wharves on their own and the Commonwealth's flats, and to fix the terms on which such wharves may be built, and the price to be paid to the Commonwealth. This part of the resolve, which is in reality an important law, was not embraced in the General Statutes enacted in 1860, and has not since been repealed.

The powers thus given to the Governor and Council seem to fall appropriately within the sphere of the Harbor Commissioners, and can be more conveniently exercised by them in connection with analogous powers already conferred on them.

The fourth section of the Act establishing the board suggests the form of the new powers and duties to be transferred to the Harbor Commissioners, if the Legislature shall concur with me in the opinion that this change ought to be made.

I think the Harbor Commissioners ought to have the power of selling and of leasing any of the Commonwealth's flats, except the South Boston flats, and of adjusting the lines of flats between the Commonwealth and riparian proprietors, subject to approval by the Governor and Council.

FISHERIES IN THE MERRIMACK AND CONNECTICUT RIVERS.

I invite your attention to the report of the Commissioners of Fisheries, who were appointed under the Act of last year relating to this subject. These gentlemen have engaged zealously in the work of the commission, and their report presents gratifying results. This subject was first brought to the attention of the General Court, by complaint of the State of New Hampshire, that valuable migratory fish were excluded from that State by dams on the Merrimack and Connecticut, which stopped these fish on the way from the sea. The objects aimed at by the commission are, to open a free passage for these fish from the mouths of these rivers to their head waters; to hasten the re-stocking of these waters; to so regulate the time and manner of taking fish as to insure their certain propagation and supply,—and, by every practicable measure, to maintain the river water free of pollution.

The Commissioners have already progressed so far, that, in the next spring, the Merrimack will be free from its mouth to head waters—by means of fishways over all the high dams, both in Massachusetts and New Hampshire. It remains to place the Connecticut in as good condition at the Holyoke and Turner's dams; and this work also will probably be completed in the course of the next season. The Commissioners of New Hampshire have coöperated with our own in re-stocking the waters of the Merrimack, and this part of the work will be still further prosecuted. For the effectual regulation of the taking of fish from these rivers, and for keeping them in a reasonable state of purity, additional Acts of positive and restrictive legislation, and a further appropriation, will be essential.

I deem the several measures recommended in the report of the Commissioners worthy of your approval. The States of Connecticut, New Hampshire and Vermont, are acting earnestly and in harmony with us, and a liberal policy on the part of the General Court is due not more to the importance of the enterprise itself than to comity towards these several States. As hitherto the people of Vermont and New Hampshire have not prevented the application of the large and valuable reservoir water powers lying within their limits to the support of the numerous manufactories situate below them, and owned by our own citizens, reciprocity on our part is justice towards them. The example of experiments elsewhere, undertaken and resulting in accordance with the established facts of natural history, warrant an expectation of profitable results here, if only the work be continued with thoroughness.

BOUNTIES PAID—THE PAYMASTER'S DEPARTMENT.

I have received and shall transmit to the legislature the final report of Brigadier-General J. F. B. Marshall, the late Paymaster-General. The labors of this department have been so far reduced that the services of this officer are no longer required. A perusal of this able and comprehensive report, which may justly be regarded as a document affecting the historical renown of the Commonwealth, will vindicate the title of this department to grateful consideration for its faithful labor, for its efficiency as an instrument of war administration, and for the scrupulous integrity which has marked the whole of its management in receiving, holding, and disbursing many millions of money.

It will also prove deeply interesting as a statement of the vast amount which the people, acting here through their representatives, have paid for the preservation of the government. You will observe by reading the report that the amount of State bounties paid since the beginning of the war, including a considerable sum already made up on the pay rolls but as yet unpaid, exceeds the figures of $13,000,000. If to this I could add,—that which I am unable definitely to ascertain, and of which my mind has only a general estimate,—the amount of bounties paid locally by individual citizens and by the several municipalities of the State,—it would be demonstrated beyond the possibility of cavil that in the late national struggle the people of this Commonwealth have exhibited a measure and heroism of pecuniary sacrifice not surpassed by any other people on the globe.

By the mustering out of the twenty-fourth and thirtieth regiments during the past year the payment of monthly bounties to Massachusetts volunteers has ceased. And yet there are those, numbering from two hundred to three hundred, who enlisted in the regular service of the United States and on the quota of the State, the payment of whose bounties under the Act of 1863 will not terminate until April, 1868. In addition to this current business of the paymaster's office, there will be the payment of old bounties, not yet called for, estimated as amounting to $40,000 or $50,000 for the present year. Then there is apparently due, of full and advance bounties, on pay rolls heretofore made, a sum of more than $130,000, the consideration of which comprises the questions of doubtful, disputed or forfeited cases, for desertion and all other valid reasons.

Applications from this class are constantly received, sometimes from the friends of soldiers, but frequently from bounty brokers and speculators. For a just decision of them I deem the assistance of the paymaster's department highly important. Not the Treasury, nor any other department, can properly and sufficiently scrutinize these claims. In further addition I consider it vitally important that the records of the paymaster's department should be made in a concentrated form for future reference, which shall be a safeguard against all claims for bounties hereafter to be made, whether coming from ignorance of former payment, or from the fraudulent intent or speculative interest of professionalists and brokers. Thus far, every appeal from the refusal of payment, whether made to my predecessor or to myself, or to the Legislature from his decision or mine, has fully sustained the original judgment of the paymaster. I accordingly, early in last year, directed the officers of this department to make up a complete index of its whole work. The index has been commenced, and I invite the General Court, or its committee, to inspect it. When completed it will present at a glance, a history, now becoming accessible, as when finished it will be conclusive and perfect, of all the cases for bounty, comprising the entire period of this legislation and all the facts touching the rights of soldiers numbering some forty-two thousand (42,000.) I have thought this to be the only safe course, for justice to all deserving soldiers and for the interests of the State.

To accomplish these objects, and to leave the work of this department in a state which shall be entitled to confidence for the future, I have appointed as Paymaster Mr. W. H. Porter, one of the only two clerks remaining. He will need but a single assistant in closing the labors of the office. At an expense which is trivial compared with the large pecuniary interests involved, I recommend the small appropriation which will be needed.

STATE AGENCY AT WASHINGTON.

By authority derived from an appropriation made by the last Legislature for the purpose, I have continued the Agency at Washington, under the active and commendable conduct of Lieutenant-Colonel Gardiner Tufts, whose report for the year will accompany that of the Surgeon-General. I am aware that it may be asked why this office should be continued since the war has ended, and regiments have been mustered out, and hospitals have been closed. But the effects and the relations of war reach over into the period of peace. I have not acted alone: ten other States still retain their agencies at the Capital. Though by the termination of its duties in field and hospital the expense of the agency has been reduced more than one-half, yet its work has been regarded as important to the soldiers and their friends, and to the military history of the State.

You will learn from the report that the year at the office shows a correspondence comprising more than seven thousand letters, relating to the correction of rolls, questions of relief from disability, discharge of minors from service, fate of missing soldiers, burial and removal of the dead of Massachusetts, claims, and miscellaneous subjects.

More than three thousand claims of our soldiers for pensions, areas of pay, and bounties have passed through this agency to the General Government. The agent has collected in the year for Massachusetts soldiers more than $103,000. The business of the office is such that in my judgment it ought not to be discontinued at present. This accumulation of business comes from the Acts of Congress increasing pensions and granting new bounties to soldiers, and from our own legislation of last year relating to the disabled and the families of the slain. In all questions relating to arrears for pay, pensions, and claims made under the late Act of Congress for the equalization of bounties, it appears to me that the State ought, by so slight expense, to aid its own soldiers and to protect them from the exorbitant charges of private and professional claim agents. Under the recent Act of Congress for the equalization of bounties, alone, more than two thousand (2,000) claims have been properly filed by the State Agent. This is without charge and cost to the claimant. If the same claims were to pass through the intervention of professional agents the whole amount of the cost of maintaining this agency would be many times repeated.

I do not hesitate to recommend, that as a measure alike of economy and humanity to our soldiers and their representatives, the General Court shall by a moderate but reasonable appropriation authorize the Executive, in his discretion, to continue this agency, which has already more than accomplished the beneficent design with which it was originated.

THE STATE CONSTABULARY.

I shall have the honor to communicate a copy of the report made to me by Major Edward J. Jones, the Constable of the Commonwealth. In the document itself will be found a full detail of the operations of the department under the direction of this officer, whose services I cannot too highly commend. The experience of a second year has proved the utility and efficiency of this new organization of the civil force. It has demonstrated that the representative of the power of the Commonwealth commands a respect and attains results, which the municipal officer, embarrassed by local influences and associations, has failed to secure.

I regret that the local police have not in all cases cordially coöperated with the constabulary of the State; and that in some instances they have manifested a disposition to impede rather than to assist this department of the executive power. I suggest such legislation as shall prevent a continuance of this impediment. The whole people is interested in the detection and punishment of crime, be it in one municipality or another. Hence no officer of police should be permitted to remain in commission, who has obstructed the action of those to whom in the largest sense is intrusted the duty of detection and prosecution.

THE MILITIA—ORDNANCE.

Under the Militia Act of 1866, I thought it expedient to order the whole force under one division only, which was further organized under two brigades. The corps of Independent Cadets was detached from the division and retained subject to the orders of the Commander-in-Chief. The first encampments which were ordered under the Act were by brigades, in September last. As this was the first public and organized appearance of the militia of the State since the opening of the war in 1861, it became my pleasure, as it was equally my duty, to be present and to observe the condition of the organization.

The whole force, including officers and privates, was represented by the number of five thousand six hundred and fifty-three men, of whom only seven hundred and twenty-six were absent. A large proportion of the force present on duty was composed of those who had served with honor in the recent war. The general appearance in the drill and parade was such as would reflect credit upon the best organized militia of any State. It is an organization worthy of your continued support and appropriation; suggestive of safety in time of peace, and of power and strength for the exigencies of war. It can only be kept up by a considerable expenditure; but that expenditure, in my opinion, becomes reasonable, and even cheap, in the presence of the memorials of the last six years, and in view of the vicissitudes which may at any time betide us in the future. I felicitate the gentlemen of the Legislature, and the people of the Commonwealth, that after a war of more than four years' duration, before whose pageantry and power military organizations in peace are too apt to strike the senses as tame and unnecessary, we can so soon count in the three days' duty of camp and drill nearly six thousand of our citizens, willing to meet the irksome duties of peace as they are ready to respond to the calls of war. I trust that it is now settled, that by the liberality and encouragement of legislation, a reasonably large and sufficiently organized militia is one of the leading adjuncts and supports of the power of Massachusetts. Permit me to commend it to the patronage of the Government and to the favor of the people.

I shall avail myself of the authority conferred by law to ask the counsel of officers upon military questions relating to the organization of the militia, and may have occasion to communicate during your session further suggestions of practical methods. I shall especially inquire as to the expediency of so changing a portion of the muskets now in store at the arsenal, that they shall conform to the standard which may be adopted by the federal government.

AGRICULTURE—THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

The intelligent and active interest which the people of this Commonwealth have taken in Agriculture, has not abated during the last year. The season has been auspicious, and the careful husbandman has received an ample reward for his labor. The markets for agricultural products of every description have continued to increase, as manufactures and the mechanic arts have enlarged our cities and multiplied our thriving villages. Wherever the land is devoted to any specific branch of agriculture, for the supply of the home market, its increase in value indicates an encouraging prosperity in the art; and calls our attention to the farms of Massachusetts as the substantial foundation of much of her wealth.

The intellectual efforts which have, in various ways, been made for the advancement of agricultural science are also worthy of notice. The State Board of Agriculture has discharged its duties with commendable assiduity; and by its connection with the local agricultural societies it has stimulated investigation, and has laid before the community an attractive volume, filled with valuable results of practice and the most ingenious and suggestive speculations.

The Agricultural College, an important ally of the Board in the work of diffusing a knowledge of farming among the people, is rapidly advancing to complete organization, and will undoubtedly be ready during the present year to receive those young men who desire to bring to the work of the farm not only sound practical information, but the best scientific principles. By an Act of the Legislature, approved May 26, 1866, an immediate connection is created between these two institutions; and there seems to be no doubt, that with the influence of the Board binding it to every agricultural society in the State, and thus also to almost every farm, the college may become not only the receptacle of a great amount of useful practical knowledge, but also the source whence the highest light of science may be shed to guide the farmer in his calling. For more than three-quarters of a century Massachusetts has been awakened to the necessity of agricultural education, by the thought and effort of some of her ablest thinkers and wisest statesmen; and she is entitled to a well organized agricultural college, which shall form a part of her great system of University education,—which shall combine and direct all her efforts for agricultural improvement,—and shall be the special object of her kindest and most generous care, as an important instrument in the work of popular cultivation. Under its present management, which is pervaded with harmony, earnestness, and a wise spirit of economy, I predict the success of the institution.

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

I recommend for your consideration the expediency of so altering the period of life insurance returns that it shall conform to the financial year of the companies, which in most cases, ends on the thirty-first day of December. The adoption of this rule by us would probably lead to a uniformity in this particular throughout the country. It is wise policy to aid these companies by all reasonable facilities for the transaction of their business. This interest has already attained a magnitude which will surprise those not familiar with it; and because it is destined still further to increase, and because it encourages the beneficent principle of saving, it is deserving liberal but intelligent legislation. The companies doing business in this Commonwealth are even now represented by three hundred and forty thousand members, upon whose lives is insured the sum of more than $900,000,000; and their assets are accumulating upon a present amount of $100,000,000. During the past year they have distributed $6,000,000 among the families of deceased members. In the same time their increase in the amount insured has been $380,000,000, expressed by one hundred and thirty thousand policies. While the Legislature should make sure all possible safeguards for the holders of policies, care should also be exercised to facilitate the operations of the companies whose objects are so intimately connected with social economy and benevolence. I think that the form of the statement required of them might also be modified, and that in establishing it much may safely be left to the discretion of the State Commissioner.

THE WORLD'S EXHIBITION AT PARIS.

Complying with a Resolve of the Legislature, I have appointed a Commissioner and agents, who have in charge the interests of Massachusetts contributors to the exhibition of industry, art and science which is shortly to be open at Paris. The preparation for our own part in this rivalry of the genius and skill of all countries, has derived an added importance and dignity from the sanction of national legislation. We are not apt to over-estimate the influence of such institutions, aided and patronized by nations. They are universal educators. They become instruments of international pacification, more potential and more benevolent than the cunning of diplomacy.

The action of Congress for the promotion of this object was consummated so late, and the general business of the country has been so active for the local demand, as to warrant the apprehension of some deficiency in the variety and quality of our part in the contribution. I am assured, however, that the interests of the Commonwealth will be creditably represented.

By the American representative at Paris, and by men of public spirit in our own and other States, my attention has been called to the eminent propriety of presenting in some representative form our system of public schools. A strong desire has been expressed that we should contribute a Massachusetts school-house, with teachers and pupils. The whole of this has been thought to be impracticable. But at least a form of model school-houses, sufficiently large and well constructed to illustrate the general arrangement, with furniture and appliances, for the purpose of representing some of the visible parts of our mode of free education, is awaited by many of our friends on the continent.

To accomplish this end an appeal has recently been made by the agent to liberal citizens in this vicinity and has met with cordial response. But I think it is the better opinion that the honor of the State will be best promoted, and that the object of the exhibition will be best secured, if the Legislature shall make an appropriation for this expenditure. I take pleasure in recommending an early appropriation of $3,500, which shall enable the Governor and Council to cancel private subscriptions and at once to give effect to the object.

THE STATE BRIDGES.

I ask the attention of the General Court to the system now in force as to the supervision exercised over the Charles River and Warren Bridges, the immediate care of which, since the office of agent of these bridges was abolished by chapter 186 of the Acts of 1859, has been vested in their draw-tenders. These officers are required to make a quarterly statement of their receipts and expenditures to the Governor and Council; and this is the only supervision vested in any body over them; with the exception of the Annual Report to the Legislature which is also required of them. The expenditures for these bridges for the past year appear to be largely in excess of the appropriations, which were:—

For the Charles River Bridge, . . . .	$4,625 00
the Warren Bridge, . . . .	4,820 00
	$9,445 00

While the expenditures have been,—

For the Charles River Bridge (to Oct. 1.)	$8,100 25
the Warren Bridge (to Oct. 1.)	6,053 03
	$14,153 28
Estimating the expense of the last quarter by adding 20 per cent.,	2,830 65
	$16,983 93
	9,445 00
Leaving a deficiency of	$7,538 93

for which no appropriation has been made.

The approval of the Governor and Council is required before the draw-tenders can lease “any building, privilege, or other property, not thus appropriated, which belongs to their respective bridges;” and I suggest in view of the large deficiency referred to, that some further legislation is called for, which shall provide that no expenditures upon this property shall hereafter be made without the antecedent consent of the Governor and Council.

TROY AND GREENFIELD RAILROAD AND HOOSAC TUNNEL.

The two hundred and ninety-third chapter of the Acts of 1866 imposed upon the Governor and Council the general supervision of the work upon the Troy and Greenfield Railroad and Hoosac Tunnel, and the duty of visiting and inspecting the same at least once in each year. In the discharge of this duty, immediately after the adjournment of the Legislature, in company with the Executive Council, I passed over the entire line of the road from Greenfield to its western terminus, and visited and inspected the works at the Tunnel. This visit has since been twice repeated by the Governor and Council.

By the same Act, the Governor and Council were directed to appoint some competent and experienced person as a consulting engineer, whose duty it should be to examine and report to them upon all matters relating to the prosecution of the work upon the Railroad and the Tunnel. Accordingly the appointment was conferred upon Benjamin H. Latrobe, of Baltimore, whose approved reputation as an engineer, and whose large experience in the construction of Railroad Tunnels eminently fit him for this position. This officer has frequently visited the line of the road and inspected the work at the Tunnel.

The same Act directed the Commissioners to construct the said road, provided they could make a lease of the same which should be advantageous to the Commonwealth; such lease to be approved by the Governor and Council. The Fitchburg and the Vermont and Massachusetts Railroad Companies proposed to lease the road from Greenfield to the eastern portal of the Tunnel, at an annual rent of thirty thousand dollars; this lease to continue in force till the completion of the Tunnel, unless the work should be stopped by competent authority. This lease was afterwards executed. After making several slight improvements in the line and location of the road, the Commissioners, with the approval of the Governor and Council, and by the advice of the consulting engineer, placed the same under contract, to be completed for $545,000. This does not include the cost of depot buildings, turn-tables, or engineering expenses, which altogether, it is believed, will not exceed the further sum of $45,000. It is therefore confidently expected that the whole cost will be not more than $600,000, upon which the annual rent will pay an interest of five per cent. By the contract the road is to be opened to Shelburne Falls by November fifteenth of the present year, and to the Tunnel by July fifteenth of the year succeeding.

I invite the attention of the Legislature to the present condition and prospects of this great enterprise. The progress in the work of the Tunnel, during the year, has been twelve hundred and forty-six (1,246) feet, being four hundred and forty (440) feet in excess of that last year. The course of the work has been retarded by the introduction and experimental use of automatic drills, in the eastern opening. This machinery having been constructed at a large expense, and deemed by competent mechanics and engineers to promise success, the Commissioners thought it expedient to give it a thorough trial. For a short time after its introduction, the expectations entertained seemed likely to be fulfilled. But by reason of constant breakage, cost of replacement, and delay of the work, these machines have failed to answer their design and have been discarded. Another invention is now under test, upon the same heading, of the success of which high hopes are entertained. But the present inadequate number of the new machines will require their removal from the Tunnel, and the continuance of the experiment upon the exterior of the mountain. The consequence is, that a greater advance would have been made if the employment of hand labor had not been interrupted. New explosive agents have been employed and promise favorable results. The process of blasting by simultaneous explosions by means of electricity has proved successful.

At the West Shaft the old pumps have recently given out, and the water has so rapidly gained upon the miners, that work at this point has been for the time discontinued; but new pumps have already been secured, and not many days should elapse before the work will be resumed and successfully prosecuted. Under a contract, made by the Commissioners with the approval of the Executive, operations in the decomposed rock at the West End have been, during the past season, slowly but successfully progressing. There is no reason to doubt that this portion of the work, hitherto deemed almost insurmountable, will be surely but at great expense accomplished, and that its completion will be in advance of that of the other leading parts of the Tunnel. The Central Shaft is progressing satisfactorily, having now reached a depth of about 400 feet, leaving 630 feet yet to be completed. Such is the present condition of this work.

I desire fairly and fully, and in the light of the best information I can command, to present to the two Houses the future prospect of the time and cost necessary for the completion of this great undertaking. I have already adverted to the success of the present operations at the West End, under a contract with private parties. In the judgment of the Commissioners and of the consulting engineer, which, if the Council shall concur with me, will be approved by the Executive Department, the interest of the Commonwealth will be promoted if other sections of the Tunnel shall also be placed under contract. The reasons for this opinion are too obvious to practical men to require statement in detail. In the able and exhaustive report of the consulting engineer, which I have recently received, a copy of which I shall transmit to you, trusting that it will receive your attentive perusal, you will find the amount of excavation yet to be made, definitely expressed by cubic yards, and prices stated, at which, according to his knowledge and experience, responsible contractors will undertake the work. By his estimate the aggregate of future cost, exclusive of interest, will be $3,633,640. It will be perceived that the Commissioners, in their report, have formed estimates not varying essentially from his. It will be further perceived that the maximum of time requisite for the completion of the Tunnel is fixed by the Commissioners at twelve years from this date; while by the consulting engineer the same event is estimated to occur in July, 1875, eight and one-half years from the present time. This discrepancy is explained, in large part at least, by the apparent omission of the Commissioners to take into account the facilities for excavation that will be afforded by the completion of the Central Shaft, which, in the judgment of the engineer, will occur thirty-two months hence, thus presenting two additional headings for the operations of the miners. These estimates are predicated upon the continued employment of hand labor, and do not include any advantages to be expected from the use of new agencies in blasting.

In presenting to you these results of professional investigation, I do not forget that the disappointments of the past must cast some shadow of doubt over the exactness of predictions for the future; but the value of the lessons they have taught us are not to be lightly regarded; and the causes that have produced them, especially in the matter of outside expenditures, are not likely to occur again.

But, granting that the estimates both of time and cost may be exceeded, the probability of a successful issue, and its momentous effect on the material interests of the Commonwealth and her relative consequence in the circle of the States, will not, in my judgment, permit this enterprise to be abandoned. The value of great public works, conceived in the necessities of States, looking not to the specific returns of remunerative interest for a single year, or a limited number of years, but rather to the compensation of internal commerce through successive generations, cannot be computed by the rules that govern private investment, based on the promise of immediate profit. The finance of individuals comes within the limitations of present and personal interest; the investment of States looks for a return in their complete development and in their enduring destiny. So have judged the great commercial and manufacturing Commonwealths of New York and Pennsylvania; and so they have builded their success on the partial forgetfulness of immediate expectations, and on a confidence in the longer and grander future. While I defer to the wisdom of the Legislature, to whose judgment this whole question is now committed, I may be permitted to express my individual belief, that if this work of tunnelling a mountain, for the purpose of connecting the granaries of the West with the local wants and the broad commerce of New England, shall possibly transcend the calculations of the engineer and the Commissioners, the next generation of merchants, manufacturers and yeomen, will pardon errors of computation and cheerfully accept their proportion of the burden.

The various appropriations in aid of this enterprise amount to $3,900,000, including $200,000 for the purchase of the Southern Vermont Railroad. Of this amount there has been actually allowed and paid the sum of $3,201,220.15, including interest and exchange on scrip issued,—which leaves an unexpended balance of $698,779.85. The cost of the completion of the road already under contract, and the current expenditures upon the Tunnel itself before April, will exhaust this balance.

In the meantime, since several years must elapse before the completion of this new avenue to the West, the commerce of the East requires every practicable measure of relief from present obstacles. This is not more the demand of the metropolis of our trade, than of the people who derive through it and from it their supplies of life. It will be my duty to coöperate with you in every act which your inquiries may suggest, in aid of the commercial freedom of the people, whose present inconvenience demands our thoughtful care and our prompt action.

THE NATIONAL POLICY.

I have received from the Honorable William H. Seward, Secretary of State, and shall communicate to the Legislature, an attested copy of a Resolution of Congress, proposing to the legislatures of the several States a fourteenth Article to the Constitution of the United States. Prominent among the provisions of this Article of amendment, I notice great principles of government, long recognized by the people of this Commonwealth, and endeared to them by the sanctions of their own history and usage.

The first section guarantees to all persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to its jurisdiction, the right of citizenship and of civil equality before the law; and it protects them from any State legislation which might abridge their privileges, or deprive them of life, liberty or property, without due legal process. To this cardinal principle of a republican government I am unable to see how any citizen can reasonably object, who is himself in sincerity of belief a supporter of the Democratic idea. As an abstract proposition, it is so manifestly an axiom of free government as to preclude the necessity of argument. In its special application to the condition of the insurgent States, its adoption by Congress was designed to give certain and enduring effect to the provisions of the Act, commonly called the Civil Rights Bill, passed at its last session, by the constitutional majority, notwithstanding the objections of the President. Whatever reasons existed at the time for the enactment of that bill, apply with redoubled force to the incorporation of its provisions into the organic law. The denial of its benefits and immunities to a large class of citizens in those States, rendering emancipation to a great extent a nullity, now demands its affirmation in the most solemn form, to the end that neither the Executive nor the judicial power, nor the local authorities, may render inoperative the deliberate verdict of the people.

The second section provides that the denial of suffrage to any of the male inhabitants of a State, twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or the abridgment thereof, except for participating in rebellion or other crime, shall exclude all such disfranchised persons from forming a part of the basis of representation in the national relation. In the light of justice and the analogies of law, this proposition is a necessary corollary to that policy which has released a race from servitude, and admitted them to an equality of civil rights; since otherwise, their full enumeration in making up the basis of representation, displacing the reduced ratio now provided by the Constitution, would add to the political power of the seceding States and make this advantage of their rebellion a premium on treason.

Perhaps a leading inducement to the action of Congress in proposing this section, was the expectation that the natural desire to obtain the full representation of their inhabitants and a resulting influence in the national councils, would develop in Southern communities a sentiment in favor of universal suffrage, and raise up political organizations in its support. This theory is attractive in itself, and is supported by the teachings of experience and the tendencies of human action. To the adoption of this section the objection has been raised, that it recognizes the right of the South to disfranchise the colored race. While I am not insensible to the plausibility of this suggestion, as a question of casuistry, I am unable to feel its practical force. In my judgment, the adoption of the section recognizes, not a right, but an existing fact; and affixes to its continuance a political disability. In no event should any one of these States be admitted till this amendment has, by the requisite assent of three-fourths of the States, become a part of the Constitution itself. And further,—should the representatives elect of any such States, in virtue of the adoption of the amendment, apply for admission to Congress, it would become a question for that body seriously to consider whether such application should not be denied, unless they shall have been elected in full accordance with its conditions. For I can see only inconsistency in admitting to Congress the representatives of the South, elected in violation of the very principle, the adoption of which is made the condition of their admission.

The third section disqualifies for certain offices a specified class of participants in the rebellion, until the disability be removed by two-thirds of each House of Congress. This provision is in accord with reason and justice, and is sanctioned by the example of other governments, which have in like manner recognized a necessity for self-protection.

The fourth section, by an inviolable and enduring guarantee, secures from all question hereafter the payment of the public debt, in any manner incurred in the late war for the preservation of the National Union; and declares all public debts or claims of rebel States forever void. If there can be any objection to this section, it must come from its unnecessary re-affirmation of the inviolability of the public faith of this government. I have yet to learn that, in any quarter of the globe, any question has arisen touching the ability, or the disposition, of the United States to discharge the last dollar of its indebtedness.

The fifth section gives effect to the entire amendment by conferring upon Congress the authority to enforce its provisions.

This article of amendment was adopted by Congress, at its last session, in the public interest and in good faith to all classes and sections, whether representing the positive loyalty of the North or the reluctant acquiescence of the South. It is a fact, not without its interest to us, that both of the senators and all the representatives of Massachusetts gave to it by their votes the preliminary sanction of the Commonwealth. A similar verdict has since been pronounced by the voters of loyal States across the continent. By their action I think we and our constituents may safely abide. If in a matter of such gravity, I may be permitted to offer counsel, the amendment is worthy of your adoption.

But the events and the developments which have occurred since the amendment was proposed to the country, and which have profoundly impressed themselves upon the questions of our policy, our duty, and our safety, now challenge the public attention and action. This article was proposed by Congress to the States nearly seven months ago. The proposition was made in a spirit of magnanimity, conciliation and amity, and with a reasonable expectation on the part of Congress that it would in like manner be accepted.

I have not heretofore doubted, and do not now doubt, that if this expectation had been realized, the seceding States would have been received back by representation in the Senate and House of Representatives. In the meantime all of the Southern States referred to, whose Legislatures have convened since the passage of the Resolution in Congress,—six in number,—have with remarkable unanimity rejected the amendment. I discern no evidence on their part of an intention or a disposition to accept it. We are compelled to interpret their action as equivalent to a declaration of their settled purpose. Since these States have thus declined to become parties to this method of imperial adjustment, it only remains for the States now legitimately constituting and carrying on the government,—acknowledged for the last six years, at home and abroad, as the United States of America,—to resume and complete the process of reconstruction, on a basis consistent with national justice and national safety. For the States of the South are not the only States which have an interest in the early restoration of the relations of unity and nationality; all the States, and the whole people of America, have a common interest in the disposal of this question. The issues are of the greatest import; and starting from the basis of justice and humanity they pervade the whole fabric of foreign relations, national finance and commercial credit. The present condition of things cannot be permitted much longer to continue. For every reason affecting our domestic condition and international connections, we cannot afford that the future of the country should remain in uncertainty.

Again, while under any circumstances the perils of the general welfare, impending just so long as the social compact remains disorganized, would demand a speedy exercise of the authority of government over the whole, in the present instance this demand immediately becomes paramount. Over a large part of the section recently in rebellion, barbarous provisions of local codes, which, it was supposed, were abandoned under emancipation, are still retained and enforced in disregard of the national law. In numerous instances the rights of citizens of other States are either denied, or made worthless by the ban of public reproach; the mutualities of production and exchange, the base of the common prosperity, are weakened and interrupted; the laws of the National Congress are too often defied.

If this situation shall continue, Congress must soon be brought, in the course of events, to consider whether the interest of all shall not require of the General Government for those States a uniform policy of control and administration. As States which levied war against the Government, and were defeated on the issue of their own choice, they ought not to expect to dictate the terms of settlement, since they fall within the historical analogies of other wars. The victory of arms carries the right to future security. Having seceded from Congress, their ineffectual appeal to force entitles them to re-admission upon such terms only as the victor party may deem essential to the general welfare. And because, while they remain in the condition of their forfeiture, deprived of those representative rights which they themselves abandoned, our necessities and their own require, for us and for them, not merely the maintenance of law and order, but the unrestricted enjoyment by every citizen of every State, of whatever race or color, of the privileges and immunities defined and guaranteed by national legislation, it rests with the Congress of the United States to re-organize, re-construct, and, if need be, re-create.

With the assumption that Congress must encounter this grave responsibility, it is evident that its system of reconstruction must be based on such principles of justice, and be strengthened by such considerations of expediency arising from the national exigency, as will commend themselves to the judgment and the conscience of our own people, and command the approval of enlightened and patriotic statesmen of other nations. And not this only. They must be such as will endure the test of time, and secure the verdict of impartial history. To attain this end, it is of the first importance that we should be consistent with ourselves. The great fundamental idea of the American polity is the consent of the governed, through the ballot, to the accession of their rulers to power, and to their administrative measures. The necessity of the limitation of this principle, in our past experience, has expired with the compromises that imposed it. It is the opportunity of this generation to atone for hereditary wrong, to efface the reproach of the past, and to vindicate American ideas by enfranchising a race of men. An enviable opportunity—to place ourselves right before mankind, and to repudiate a responsibility incurred with no assent of ours, but which we must assume and forever bear if faith and courage fail us in this ordeal of the century. A Providential opportunity—not to be generous, but to be just. Apart then from all other considerations, believing that, now as always, Right is wisdom, and Justice is expediency, I avow my solemn conviction that the strait and narrow path to national safety and national renown, is Universal Suffrage.

But, even in the presence of this grand, overshadowing truth, we must not forget that for the immediate concession of this right to the colored race there are other reasons of public obligation and political necessity. At least two hundred thousand men of African descent have borne arms in the defence of the Union. They have passed the test of manhood,—the surest title to the rights of man. Their courage and constancy have never been doubted; and the memories of Port Hudson, Wagner and Pillow are inwoven in our martial history. They have toiled with the white man through forest and fastness, through swamp and bayou, and breasted the shock of charging battalions. Their martyrs and ours sleep, side by side, in the equality of death. It is surely then the basest ingratitude to deny to the survivors of the conflict a voice in the administration of that government they have aided to save. Nay, more,—to expose them to the vindictive rage of baffled traitors, re-installed in political power. The national honor forbids it. The conscience of the people disowns it.

In the chosen ways of Providence, and in its own good time, the folly of treason and secession has evolved Emancipation; and Emancipation has imposed new duties towards a crushed, and long-suffering, but docile race. Producers of that wealth which in time they themselves must share; to a considerable extent the future owners of the soil; henceforth, as in the past, by an inevitable law, the chief reliance of the South for that labor which sustains and enriches, they are drifting on the irresistible current of events toward a better destiny. The relations of labor and capital, the duties of social life, the interests of progressing civilization, the claims of humanity, demand for them that protection, guidance and instruction, they are so anxious and so prepared to receive. This high mission has been accepted by Congress and the people; and by formal and solemn enactments they have invested them with the rights and immunities not of freedmen, but of freemen. But their duty ends not here. The word of a nation is spoken. Promise must be performance. Theories of limitations, prejudices of caste, must fall before the exigency. For that pledge will remain unfulfilled, before earth and Heaven, till, as the last and surest guarantee of our sincerity, and for their own safety and progression, they are invested with the right of suffrage.

Any plan for reconstruction by Congress must include a thorough consideration, in a fraternal spirit, of reciprocal duties and responsibilities. And this is especially necessary and desirable when, as in the present instance, national loss and sectional ruin are distinctly traceable to a false political system, which, affecting all the strata of society, and reacting with formidable power on individual interests, elevating the few at the expense of the many, subverts the cardinal principle that the greatest good of the greatest number constitutes the true prosperity of a State. I share the general conviction that this concentration of all political power in the hands of a few is still potent for mischief in repressing the latent loyalty of the South, and for preventing a cordial acquiescence in safe and honorable conditions of settlement. To develop and encourage this loyal spirit, is no less a duty than a necessity. And how can it be effected more easily than by introducing a new political element, evoking safe competition and free discussion? Before these agencies old fabrics will melt away, and the South will awaken to a new life, and become indeed a part of a homogeneous nation. It is the judgment of her most loyal and patriotic sons, in which I heartily concur, that the antidote to existing wrongs, and a safe and certain hope for the future, is to be found in Universal Suffrage.

A degree of education, as a condition of suffrage, is not without its advocates. The prevalence of this idea is no matter of surprise or regret; so clearly is it traceable to the influence of the common schools and colleges of the Free North, to which is undoubtedly due its incorporation into the Constitution of Massachusetts. But vital questions of national import are not to be measured and settled by considerations affecting local policies. Broad as civilization itself, they should be met in that liberal spirit that can comprehend and weigh the changing conditions of time, and place and circumstance. To the colored race, held in ignorance by local laws in regions where district schools are unknown and public education scarcely exists in any form, with the law and the purse in the hands of determined opponents, suffrage thus limited would be practically unattainable. Hence, in my judgment, unrestricted suffrage, by conferring a measure of power on those animated by the strongest incentives to acquire education for themselves and their children, will prove the surest method of elevating the race and establishing the institutions of the South on a basis of intelligent patriotism.

And, in our efforts to grasp and settle this mighty issue we are not alone. Free thought, free speech, the rights of labor, and the dignity of the individual man, are the themes which throughout the world compel the attention of philosophers and statesmen, and find utterance in the general call for universal suffrage. The greatest and wisest sovereign of Europe was the first to recognize its power, and made haste to secure his seat by the general ballot of his people. The Reformers of England are clamoring for an extended franchise. The suffrage of Prussia approaches, in its liberality, to that of a pure Democracy. In re-united Italy it is a royal hand that recalls the ancient plebiscit; and the Emperor of Austria, it is said, will soon summon his subjects to the ballot-box.

It is not in accordance with our mission to learn lessons in statesmanship from the monarchies of Europe. In the practical application of the true idea of Liberty it is the duty of this Republic to lead the way. It is therefore my earnest hope that the Congress of the United States, having conceded the principle in the case of the District of Columbia, will complete the work so auspiciously begun, by establishing Universal Suffrage as the irreversible law of the land.

Senators and Representatives :

By a singular felicity in the requirement of our law, here, on the threshold of duty, we have pledged allegiance and service to the twofold jurisdiction and the sublime unity of Massachusetts and the Union. The same conscience binds us to both. Destiny and Events, God and History, have given to us the same love and veneration for both. It is well that the greater part of time in these chambers is expended in that deliberation and discussion which pertains to local legislation. But no thought, or measure, or policy, of our own, ought to stand in preference to the welfare of the whole Union, with which ours is blended;—in preference to the duty which we, in common with all our countrymen, are drawn by fraternity, and love, and loyalty, to perform towards the race of man.

The able and comprehensive Report of the Commissioners is herewith transmitted to the legislature.

The large plans and drawings made by the architects, I have retained in one of the rooms of the executive department, for the obvious reason of inconvenience which would apply to their transmission. They may be kept where they now are, accessible at all times to the members of the legislature; or I will direct them to be placed in any other part of the building which the General Court shall designate.

[To the House of Representatives, May 7.]

Claims of Herman Haupt and Company.

In response to the request of the House of Representatives, communicated to me on the third instant, I herewith transmit a copy of the Report of the Commissioners appointed under the provisions of chapter ninety-six of the Resolves of eighteen hundred and sixty-six, to examine the claims of Herman Haupt and Company. By the terms of the Resolve, if the Commissioners should deem any of these claims equitable and just, for labor, service, machinery, materials and land damages, or any payments and expenditures in the construction of the Troy and Greenfield Railroad and Hoosac Tunnel, the governor and council were empowered, upon the approval of the same, to provide for their payment. The Commissioners having reported that no part of these claims is equitable and just, I conclude that no further duty pertaining to the subject remains for the executive.

The Order of inquiry adopted by the House of Representatives further requests me to communicate such information, connected with the subject-matter, and not already in the possession of the legislature, as may be deemed expedient. In reply I have the honor to say that the only information relating to these claims, which is in the possession of this department, is contained in the Report of the Commissioners.

[To the Senate, May 13.]

Request of U. S. for premises on Gallop's Island and Point Allerton.

I have the honor to transmit herewith a communication from the Secretary of War, asking the cession of the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth over certain premises on Gallop's Island and Point Allerton, in Boston Harbor, needed for the purposes of national defence.

[To the House of Representatives, May 14.]

State Constabulary.

I have had the honor to receive from the House a copy of the following Order:—

“Ordered, That His Excellency the Governor be requested to communicate to the House any information which he may deem proper relative to the present number of the State Constabulary; what increase of the force, if any, has been made under the legislation of the present year; what further appropriation, if any, will become necessary therefor; and any other information which he may think fit in regard to the administration, government and efficiency of the corps.”

That I might be enabled to reply properly to this Order of inquiry, I have obtained from the Constable of the Commonwealth the necessary information, which is embodied in this communication.

As to the first point of inquiry, I am informed by the Chief Constable that the present number of the State Constabulary is sixty-eight. This force, as now distributed, is stated by counties, as follows:—Suffolk, 30; Essex, 7; Middlesex, 5; Worcester, 5; Norfolk, 4; Plymouth, 3; Bristol, 3; Hampden, 2; Barnstable, 2; Hampshire, 2; Berkshire, 2; Franklin, 2; Dukes, 1. Total, 68.

In response to the inquiry what increase of the force has been made under the legislation of the present year, I reply that none has yet been made. The action of the Executive Department in this particular, should, doubtless, be influenced by the judgment of the State Constable as to the needed force, and must also have reference to the appropriation made by the legislature. As the amount already appropriated for this purpose for the present year will be absorbed by the existing force, I shall not feel at liberty to authorize any addition to the number until further appropriation shall have been made by the General Court.

In reply to that part of the Order which inquires what further appropriation will be necessary, I am enabled to communicate the estimate of the Chief Constable. According to his judgment, the addition of forty men to the present force will answer the requirements of the public service, which would make necessary the further appropriation of forty thousand three hundred and twenty dollars ($40,320,) for the remaining seven months, commencing with the first of June.

The concluding clause of the Order of the House calls for “any other information (which may be thought fit) in regard to the administration, government and efficiency of the corps.” The degree of “efficiency” of the force is, perhaps, sufficiently shown by the reports made by the chief officer. For the year 1866 his report is already in possession of the legislature. For the four months of the present year, ending May 1st, his special report, made to me since the adoption of the Order by the House, exhibits the following results:—

Liquor prosecutions, . . . . .	1,784
All other, . . . . .	575
	<hr/>	2,359
Seizures of gaming and lottery implements, .		38
Liquor seizures, . . . . .		476
Fines paid, . . . . .		$38,574 66

In this report the Constable states that the amount of fines paid since January 1st, exceeds all expenditures on account of the force in the same period by the sum of eight thousand two hundred fifty-six dollars and ninety-two cents, ($8,256.92.) In relation to the "administration and government of the corps," I can only say that, since that is intrusted to the Chief Constable, I believe it is exercised in accordance with his rules and regulations with rigor and effect.

I have hesitated whether I should or should not construe the words of the Order of the House—"administration and government of the corps"—as possibly intended to comprise instructions for the administration and government of the force, supposed to proceed from the Executive Department of the Commonwealth. And I deem the apparent uncertainty of this language justly to demand from me a definition of the relations of the Governor with the Constabulary, as understood and practised by me at all times since I have been in this office.

The Act of 1865, establishing a State police, after defining the powers of the Chief Constable and his deputies, provides, that they "shall at all times obey all orders of the Governor in relation to the preservation of the public peace, or the execution of the laws throughout the Commonwealth; and it shall be their duty to see that the laws of the Commonwealth are observed and enforced; and they shall especially use their utmost endeavors to repress and prevent crime, by the suppression of liquor-shops, gambling places and houses of ill-fame." I have judged that it was simply the purpose of this provision to provide for the more efficient execution of the laws against the offences therein referred to; and, that as the ultimate means of accomplishing this purpose, the Act recognizes and affirms the existence of a power in the Governor, to issue explicit orders, in case of need, to the Constable and his deputies, or that it creates such power, if it did not exist before.

It does not follow from this that it is any part of the ordinary duty of the Governor to see or advise in regard to the execution of the laws for the punishment of these or any other crimes, in particular instances. This would impose upon him a degree of attention to matters of detail in administration which would be quite inconsistent with the proper discharge of his other duties. And accordingly, suitable officers are provided, upon whom in the first instance this duty rests.

This is manifest also from another consideration. The Act already alluded to refers specially to three kinds of offences, all of which are in the General Statutes classed alike as nuisances, namely: The maintaining of liquor-shops, gambling places, and houses of ill-fame. These three offences stand alike under the Constabulary Act of 1865; and any construction of this statute which would make it the Governor's duty personally to supervise the execution of the laws for the suppression of one of these kinds of nuisances, would apply equally to both of the others. That is to say, if under this statute it is the duty of the Governor personally to supervise the execution of the laws for the suppression of liquor-shops, the same duty rests upon him in regard to gambling places and houses of ill-fame. I respectfully submit my opinion that the legislature could never have intended to impose these duties upon the Governor. The more reasonable construction is, that in case of marked neglect by the proper officers to enforce the laws relating to these or other offences, the Governor has power to intervene and direct the same to be enforced.

It is likewise apparent that the power of the Governor under this Act is only to enforce, and not in any instance to suspend, the execution of the laws. The power of pardoning offences is indeed given to him by the constitution to be exercised with the consent of Council. But this power cannot be exercised before the conviction of the offender. Nor is it consistent either with the spirit or the letter of the constitution, that the Governor should interpose to stay the execution of the laws, or to shield any class of offenders from the consequences of their acts, otherwise than by the exercise of the pardoning power. On the contrary, it is expressly provided in the Declaration of Rights, (Article 20,) that "the power of suspending the laws, or the execution of the laws, ought never to be exercised but by the legislature, or by authority derived from it, to be exercised in such particular cases only as the legislature shall expressly provide for." In my opinion, it was not the intention of the legislature, by chapter 249 of 1865, to confer upon the Governor the power to suspend the execution of the statutes against maintainers of the nuisances therein referred to. On the other hand, for the more faithful and complete execution of those statutes, new officers were created, before unknown in this Commonwealth, whose special duty it is to repress and prevent crime, by the suppression of liquor-shops, gambling places and houses of ill-fame. And it is not in conformity with the spirit of the constitution that the power to suspend the execution of the laws should exist in any officer, even in the Governor himself, unless clearly bestowed. If laws which are deemed unwise are found upon the statute book, they must nevertheless be enforced, impartially and faithfully, by all the officers of the government, until amended or repealed by the legislature, with whom alone rests the power of making and repealing the laws. It is not for the chief executive magistrate to assume, in his discretion, in one instance to enforce, and in another instance to suspend, existing laws. For this would be virtually to exercise legislative power. But all laws should be executed impartially, to the end, (in the emphatic language of the Declaration of Rights,) that the Government of the Commonwealth "may be a government of laws, and not of men."

In short, it has seemed to me, that with the details of the execution of the laws for the punishment of crimes, the Governor in the first instance has nothing whatever to do. Proper officers are provided for this duty, upon whom the responsibility in the first instance rests. If these should neglect their duty, in a manner so conspicuous that the Governor, in the exercise of a sound discretion, should feel called upon to interfere and require the enforcement of the laws, the power to do so is vested in him. But until such marked neglect shall occur, his duty is well discharged by exercising such general supervision over them as he is called to exercise over the other officers and departments of the government of the Commonwealth. In justice to the Chief Constable, and the administration of his force, I may add that thus far I have seen no good reason to interfere.

Such has been my construction, and such has been my practice, in the discharge of my duty under the Act of 1865. If persons desiring to call attention to the violation of the laws in particular instances, or if others interested in seeking a relaxation of the laws, shall continue during my term of office to apply for the intervention of the Executive, I shall consider that my duty has been discharged by referring all such, as I have heretofore referred them, to the recognized and responsible officer. In consideration of the reasonable degree of dignity with which the constitution has invested the office of chief magistrate, and equally in justice to the people of the Commonwealth, who, I must suppose, have an interest in requiring the character of the office to be maintained, I must decline to undertake to exercise the duties which properly belong to a subordinate. I may add, that the late Attorney-General and the present Attorney-

General of the Commonwealth have, when consulted, expressed their concurrence with me in this construction of the statute.

[To the Senate, May 25.]

I have the honor to transmit herewith a Communication from Mr. L. B. Schwabe, who proposes to present to the Commonwealth his gallery of portraits of soldiers and sailors of the Union, principally from Massachusetts, who have fallen during the recent war of the rebellion. I commend Mr. Schwabe's offer to the consideration of the General Court.

L. B. Schwabe.

[To the House of Representatives, June 1.]

I feel constrained to return without my approval, the bill entitled "An Act fixing the salaries of Judges, Registers and Assistant-Registers of Probate and Insolvency, and for other purposes."

Salaries of judges and registers of probate and insolvency.

This bill provides, in section 2, that no judge of probate and insolvency shall hold any office under the authority of the United States, or any law thereof, except that of Commissioner appointed by the Circuit Courts of the United States, under the Act of February 20th, 1812; and the acceptance of any such office, or the discharge of its duties, unless the said judge of Probate and Insolvency shall resign his office of Register of Bankruptcy before this Act shall take effect, shall be held to be a resignation of his office of Judge.

The necessary effect of this bill is to render the office of judge of probate of wills incompatible with any office under the authority of the United States, or any law thereof, except that of commissioner.

The Constitution of Massachusetts establishes the office of judge of probate of wills; specifies certain other offices with which it shall be incompatible; and provides that judges of probate shall hold their office during good behavior, unless removed upon the address of both houses of the legislature.

It is not within the power of the legislature to provide that judges of probate shall be removed, otherwise than in accordance with the Constitution. This bill provides for a compulsory resignation of judges of probate, which is equivalent to a removal, on grounds which seem to me insufficient to justify such a requirement.

The Constitution provides but two modes of vacating the commissions of judicial officers against their will: First, by impeachment; second, by removal by the Governor, with consent of the Council, upon the address of both houses of the legislature. But this Act purports to create a third mode, viz.: by declaring the office vacant, under certain contingencies, against the will of the incumbent, by mere force of ordinary legislative enactment.

In addition to this ground of objection, which applies only to the office of judge of probate, there is an incongruity in the phraseology of the second section, which would compel me to withhold my assent to it in its present form. This section provides that the acceptance of any office under the authority of the United States, or any law thereof, shall be held to be a resignation of the office of judge, register or assistant-register of probate and insolvency, unless said judge, register or assistant-register of probate and insolvency shall resign his office of Register of Bankruptcy. The last clause of this provision seems to assume that the office which is now to become incompatible with the other offices named, must necessarily be the office of Register of Bankruptcy, while the earlier clause of the same provision is general, and applies to all offices under the authority of the United States.

[To the House of Representatives, June 1.]

Boston harbor and Commonwealth's flats.

An Act has been laid before me for my revision, entitled "An Act for the improvement of the harbor of Boston and the Commonwealth's Flats therein."

Reaching me only during these closing hours of the session of the General Court, I am unable, without delaying your final adjournment, to give such consideration as under other circumstances I should desire, to objections which suggest themselves to certain provisions therein contained.

I refer to section four of said Act, whereby certain license and authority, heretofore conferred on the Boston Wharf Company, is revoked.

I entertain doubts of the constitutional right of the General Court to effect this revocation.

I have not the opportunity, at this hour of the session, to inform myself concerning these doubts sufficiently to enable me to return the Act, with my objections in writing, to the General Court.

As said company may obtain protection from the Supreme Judicial Court against unconstitutional legislation; and as the other sections of the Act contain provisions of great public importance, to which I have no objection, I have therefore signed the Act.

But I consider that the circumstances under which I have thus affixed to it my signature, require me to make this official statement of them to the House of Representatives, in which the Act originated.

[To the Senate, June 1.]

I feel constrained to return without my approval the Bill entitled "An Act to unite the cities of Boston and Roxbury." Cities of Boston and Roxbury, to unite.

So far as I can learn from the legislative papers officially before me, the reasons assigned for this Act are the supposed necessities of Boston. Certain benefits to the people of Roxbury, and financial benefits to the Commonwealth, are incidentally urged. But the motives for annexation are, in chief: first, protection of the wealth and business of non-residents of Boston from injudicious municipal legislation by a resident population, a large majority of whom may feel but lightly the burdens of taxation or the responsibilities of power; and second, the enhancement of the consideration, convenience and importance of Boston by increase of territory and population.

I respectfully submit for the reconsideration of the legislature whether those reasons should avail thus to merge one municipality in another without the first ascertained consent of at least the municipality to be extinguished. And such consent by Roxbury has not been ascertained either by vote of its inhabitants or by vote of its City Council. The same may be said of Boston. In considering this subject I beg leave to suggest that New England, and not least Massachusetts, owes too much of happiness and renown to the system of local independent municipalities, not to regard it with peculiar reverence.

Once as religious corporations, although that function now has passed away; and now as political bodies, exercising all functions of government not delegated or prohibited by the constitution;—our Massachusetts municipalities have performed duties and sustained burdens that have trained the people in democratic habits and principles. As educational institutions, organizing public schools; as charitable institutions, caring for the sick and the poor; as judicial institutions, maintaining local magistrates; as police institutions, providing constabulary, fire and watch departments; as sanitary institutions, regulating sewerage, distributing water, and guarding the public health; as commercial institutions, supporting highways, and townways, and bridges, and supervising certain branches of trade; and as financial institutions, raising and employing the money needful to all these forms of corporate life and activity:—the municipalities of the Commonwealth have always had, each, an individuality of its own. So have had equally the cities, into which, since the adoption of the constitutional amendment proposed by the Convention of 1820, several of the larger towns have developed. I confess to an unwillingness, derived from their relations and their history, to give my assent to the abolishment of any one of these municipalities without at least first trying the will of its people.

And through all the experience of two centuries this individuality and independence of the townships have been consistent with mutual harmony and strength. The towns of Roxbury and Boston were organized almost simultaneously. For two hundred and thirty-seven years the lines of their municipal history have been parallel. Each has independent traditions and associations. Boston as the birthplace of Franklin; Roxbury as the birthplace of Warren. Boston holds the ashes of John Winthrop; Roxbury reveres the memory of John Eliot. Each is a mature civil and political organization, that would still exist complete in all its various functions, if the other should disappear from existence altogether. Each has its perfect system of schools, of almshouses, of courts, of police, of fire departments, of roads, and of finance, peculiar to itself and differing perhaps from the other; but not inconsistent with the other. If there are features of administration in which harmony of action between the cities is needful to the welfare of both or of either, it is within the power of the legislature to interpose by special legislation if either city should withhold concurrence with the other. But I cannot think that any such lack of harmony prevails between the two cities as to render it essential to extinguish the independence of either of them without ascertaining the will of the people.

And I submit to the General Court whether it is even expedient, or just, without the consent of the people of a town or city first formally ascertained, to put an end to it for any less cause; to destroy its individuality consecrated by history and tradition, and exercised in all the manifold forms of civic life, and to obliterate it out of existence altogether.

That the annexation of Roxbury would add to the consideration and importance of Boston, I cannot bring myself to believe is a just and sufficient reason to annex it against the possible desire of its people to remain independent.

I notice that in the report of the Committee of the legislature the annexation of Roxbury seems to be recommended as a first step towards the absorption also of Winthrop, Chelsea, Somerville, Charlestown, Cambridge, Brighton, Brookline and Dorchester. Lest I may misapprehend the report, I quote its precise language.

The Committee say :

“Not only should the territory of Roxbury be added [to Boston.] but her borders extended across the waters to the surrounding mainland, and to the highlands beyond, that she may hereafter embrace within her corporate limits the population, wealth and civilization that legitimately belong to her.”

In considering this prospect my apprehension is excited by the peril of the present precedent when the first step towards its consummation is thus made without taking the sense of the community to be absorbed,—serving thus as a precedent for merging with Boston in like manner no less than three other cities and five towns besides, comprising altogether a population not much inferior in numbers to that of the metropolis itself,—all of them, having traditions, history and institutions of their own, perfect in themselves, and independent of Boston, and all of them severally entitled to be consulted.

My paramount objection, then, to the bill now before me, is, that, the consent of the people of the two cities to be united, and especially of Roxbury, is neither required nor permitted. The consent of Boston is not required or permitted, which by the act is made to assume the debt of Roxbury;—nor the consent of Roxbury, whose part in the debt of Boston is made compulsory: whose rights, traditions, and sentiments, as of a municipality of two hundred and thirty-seven years, are disregarded without the proffer of an opportunity to its people to pronounce the willing or the unwilling word.

This has not been Massachusetts doctrine or Massachusetts practice. This appears to me, to be not only without any precedent, but against all precedents.

After the most careful search of our annals of legislation which I have had the time to make since this bill has been laid before me, I have found for this act no parallel, nor analogy, nor precedent.

There is a class of cases to be found in our statutes, beginning in the days following the provincial necessities, and quite common in later time, in which the boundary lines of towns have been changed by setting off persons and property from one town to another, without calling for the vote of the parties especially in interest.

This has been for obvious reasons, the necessity in those cases. But these cases have not reached the thought of obliterating a municipality without first taking the sense of its people. In every case in which this thing has been attempted, so far as I can learn, the consent of the inhabitants has been made the condition. In the case of Dighton and Wellington in 1825, of Charlestown and Boston in 1854, of Chelsea and Boston in 1856, of Salisbury and Amesbury in 1864, the provision for submitting the question to the vote of the citizens was incorporated in the acts. And in the whole history of the agitation of the question of uniting Boston and Roxbury, prior to this date, the propriety and fitness of the same provision has been observed. In the bills providing for the union of these very cities, reported severally in 1859, in 1860, and in 1865, the act was conditioned upon the consent of the inhabitants to whom was given the opportunity of voting upon the question. In my judgment it is a demand of high public policy that this line of precedents, founded on broad grounds of justice and equity, should not be broken. Under the necessity for equality of representation our system has been so changed that now less than half of our towns have members in the House of Representatives. The small towns are thus rendered powerless against absorption and annihilation, unless the historical sense of justice which has characterized these precedents of the past shall be observed in the future ; for they have not in half the years even the voice of a member through which to protest on the floor of either branch. And I cannot regard it as of light consideration that the sovereign power of the legislature over the towns should be at all times exercised in the spirit of a parental power, to the end that all legislation affecting their very existence should command their respect and approval.

The only objection to the provision of submitting this question to the people of Boston and Roxbury known to me, is, that it would be unconstitutional and therefore would render the act null and void. After careful reflection, and upon a review of the authorities of law, legislation and construction, I am brought to the conviction that this objection is without any just foundation. I am not aware that it has ever even been raised in this class of cases until now. In no one of the bills of this kind which have been reported in the last forty years has any such apprehension even been entertained.

And I invite the attention of the general court to the published opinion of the late Chief Justice Shaw, in the case of Charlestown and Boston, in which he so fully recites the clause submitting the act to the vote of the people as to make it morally certain that if this objection had possessed any force it would not have been passed by without mention. I have taken the opinion of my legal adviser, the Attorney-General of the Commonwealth, upon this specific question, and the same is in writing appended to this communication.

That officer has given to the examination of this objection the thought and research which its importance demands ; and I respectfully submit to the legislature that his conclusion rests upon infrangible authorities and reasoning.

While therefore I should readily have given to the bill my approval if it had provided that the act should take effect only with the consent of the people chiefly interested, in the absence of that provision I deem it my duty to adhere to the policy which has become historical in the legislation of this Commonwealth.
